
DISPERSIBLE PROTEIN COMPOSITION

ABSTRACT

The subject matter described herein relates to compositions with high protein concentrations that can be readily dispersed in aqueous liquids. The compositions include protein and a surfactant such as hydroxylated lecithin, which assists in readily dispersing the composition in aqueous liquids. A method for making the composition is disclosed which includes spraying the protein with an aqueous solution that includes the surfactant.